A,B,C,E,G,K,M It has been a long time since first grade.

A little clowning between classes never hurt anyone.

There are still a few who like to study.

The Lettermen and the faculty fight it out to the end.

Lenny Fuchs wrestling with an opponent.

Tennis Anyone?

The yearbook staff would like to dedicate this year's WARRIOR yearbook to the graduating class of 1970. We are now prepared to enter the world to start a new life.

This life will begin in a new world; a world filled with change, which continues to change to meet the demands of a new generation. With great pride, I predict that this class will succeed in all walks of life.

Senior Editor
Jaimee K. Louis

Our cold academic winter

will produce a bloom

of spring graduation.

g.c.h.s. cheerleaders

This year's Warrior Boosters have proved to be one of the most successful cheerleading squads in the history of the high school. The cheerleaders for wrestling, football, and basketball are sponsored by Miss Sylvia Evangeloff, and have been guided by the squad's captain, Debbie Seebold. By practicing Mondays and Thursdays every week, the girls earned the honor of cheering for the St. Louis Cardinals during their game against the Cleveland Browns. The Warriors, themselves, are fully appreciative of these girls who cheered them on through their few downfalls and many victories. All in all, the students of Granite High would like to commend the Cheerleaders for their excellence in promoting school spirit in the student body throughout the year.

the last word

After long months of preparation and publication, the 1970 WARRIOR is in the form of a book; a book that mirrors your activities, thoughts, and actions. This edition of the WARRIOR is a visual record of many student types, from an advanced speech student to a football quarterback. Hopefully, the Yearbook Staff has captured moments that will continue to be meaningful to the reader in future years.

All of the students, teachers, and administrators who have contributed to the 1970 WARRIOR in any way, can be proud of your contribution, for it is you that has made the creation of this edition possible.

I would like to thank Jaimee Louis, Senior Editor, for the hard work and long hours she has put into this yearbook. She not only completed the senior section but worked on other sections as well. To the graduating seniors of G.C.H.S., congratulations, and good luck.
